ABSTRACT

Designed for a social studies program stressing the inquiry method, this packet of sample test questions uses a thematic rather than a topical approach. The four thematic categories are geography, religion and philosophy, cultural characteristics and relationships, and socialization. Four levels of the thinking process are identified and questions are designated accordingly. Suggestion for the best use of the package are made, along with some consideration of steps in the essay-writing process in social studies. Part I introduces the concept of the Sample Question Packet, Part II deals with objective questions, Part III contains combination objective and essay questions, and Part IV presents essay questions. An evaluation form for the package is provided. Related documents are ED 067 348 and ED 076 482. (Author/KSM)

SUGGESTIONS FOR USE

As is indicated in the introductory section which follows, this packet has been designed somewhat differently from its predecessors. Four levels of the thinking process have been identified and defined, and questions have been designated accordingly. A thematic, rather than a topical classification is used for these sample questions.

We advise teachers to examine the introductory section before constructing their own tests. Teachers are encouraged to include items based upon all four levels. Many of the included items might be used in unit pre or post tests, or serve as a base in the development of learning activities.

Considerable caution must be exercised in the use of questions however and in the interpretation of scores to insure beneficial results. The following precautions should therefore be kept constantly in mind:

1. Scope and Emphasis - While the questions herein attempt to represent a comprehensive sample of the course of study, not every area of the syllabus is covered by a number of questions exactly proportional to the importance of that area. Nor are questions to be considered as exclusively related to a single topic. Also, in the preparation of questions, no attempt was made to insure against the possibility that the stem of one question might contain the answer of another, or that consecutive questions might overlap, since it was not intended that every teacher would use every question. In the selection process, it is expected that the teacher will make decisions regarding questions in accordance with the objectives he desires. Consequently questions may be changed or omitted in accordance with local situations.

2. Assignment of Credits and Time Limits for Essay Questions - Suggested credit has not been assigned to the essay questions included in this booklet. When used as part of a written examination, the overall length of the exam will contribute to the determination of the amount of time and credit assigned to a particular question. Some questions require more information and analysis than others and so should be valued accordingly in terms of credit. Where local situations provide for pass-fail arrangements, adaptations can be made accordingly. In any event, the teacher has the obligation of deciding the appropriate credit and indicating the same to the pupils.

3. Testing and Teaching - Just as it is a poor technique to teach specifically for a Regents examination, so it would be poor practice to direct lessons at the questions in this booklet. Testing should follow the curriculum, not determine it. Teachers should concentrate upon teaching a sound, well-rounded course. Then, if a specific question in this booklet seems appropriate to measuring the objectives in the course, the question should be utilized for that purpose. It is the intent of this packet to be a guide to the kinds of questions any teacher might use on an examination. Adaptation of these questions should be the rule rather than the exception.

Yet, any written test necessarily measures only part of the desirable outcomes or objectives of the course. Pupil attitudes, satisfactions, appreciation, work habits and similar factors are largely ignored in written tests. Hence the total product of any particular course of study or the total effectiveness of any individual teacher; cannot be evaluated solely on the basis of written test results. Tests merely provide additional information to be considered along with a large number of other factors in the total school situation.

On Essay-Writing in the Social Studies

In stressing the inquiry method, the new social studies program is attempting to focus emphasis on the process of learning and not just on results. Consequently, teachers can allocate their time and efforts to all steps involved in essay-writing. Such a division of labor can result in greater benefits for both the teacher and the student.

Some of the steps to take into consideration are:

1. The acquisition of essay questions - How is a working file of conceptually-oriented essay questions best acquired and maintained? For example, is it best accomplished through a team approach and maintained in an index card file?
2. The analysis of essay questions - Why spend time grading papers which are poor basically because students have failed to analyze the questions properly? Instead, why not allocate class time to the analysis of essay questions, using an overhead projector and/or teacher-prepared ditto sheets to assist in the task?
3. What it does and does not ask - In teaching students to analyze questions, why not give emphasis to what the question does not ask, as well as to what it does ask? This may help students avoid the pitfall of going off on a tangent. Also, why not teach students to identify key words in a question, specialized vocabulary, the particular demands of the question, etc.?
4. Identifying the issue - Why not devote considerable time to class discussion of an essay question to clarify what the writer will be trying to prove so that students will realize the need to clarify and plan before writing? An overhead projector and/or teacher prepared ditto sheets would also be helpful in this step.
5. Organizing Evidence - Why not give students practice in outlining answers and organizing evidence before a written assignment is given? You may avoid giving yourself the hopeless chore of reading poorly organized answers.
6. Writing the answer - Once students are assigned to write an essay answer, why not provide them with a checklist of the various steps involved in writing the answer? Why not require an outline and occasionally grade just the outline?
7. Evaluating the essay - Must essays always be graded just by the teacher? Or is there not a benefit to providing students with a teacher-prepared guide which specifies the criteria for judging the essay and have him critically read his own work? Variations of this technique are possible. For example, the teacher might read the essay, assign a score in his records but not indicate it on the student's paper. The paper could then be returned to the student for evaluation as indicated above the student's score compared with the teacher's in a follow-up conference which would help individualize the instruction. Or in group work, students might develop criteria to be used in judging a particular essay.
8. Analyzing the evaluation - After essay answers are written and evaluated, why not make use of the opaque projector with the entire class to analyze sample papers, discern common errors and arrive at common goals for the future?

Ninth Grade Social Studies Sample Question Packet

Part I - An Introduction to the Concept of the Sample Question Packet

The ninth grade sample test item committee members decided to develop a packet which would serve a dual purpose.

The committee desired to include items that were based upon broad cultural concepts in addition to questions based upon the content areas of Asian and African Culture Studies. There was a deliberate attempt to avoid the "final examination" look/format used previously, because too many teachers assumed that this was the primary purpose of the test packet. On the contrary, the packet questions are intended to serve as models for the classroom teacher in designing teacher-made instruments, as well as providing items for the teachers to use or to adapt.

The instructional nature of the packet concerns itself with helping teachers to identify and develop questions suitable for a hierarchy of learning abilities. Four levels are identified and sample questions are categorized accordingly.

The four levels of questions are:

- I Cognitive Recall--a direct question, calling for straight factual or conceptual recall
- II Knowledge of Relationships Between or Among Facts or Concepts
- III Knowledge of Abstractions; Interpretation of Generalizations
- IV Conceptualization or Generalization on the Basis of Given Data--moving from familiar to unfamiliar situations; identifying general principles

In the construction of this packet, questions representing the above four levels were identified for the following thematic categories (more than one question for the same level may be included):

- 1 GEOGRAPHY
- 2 RELIGION AND PHILOSOPHY
- 3 CULTURAL CHARACTERISTICS AND RELATIONSHIPS
- 4 SOCIALIZATION

Several more categories were originally identified by the committee, but were omitted because of space considerations. Teachers are encouraged to determine and select further broad categories of this type and to develop items based upon them. The classroom teacher is encouraged to experiment with and to use questions from all levels.

In addition to the question included for each sample category, a general question bank is also included. While these questions are not identified according to level, teachers and departments are encouraged to assign them to the various levels according to the suggested criteria. Correct answers are marked with an asterisk.

Any test constructed from the items in the bank should include items from all four levels. We have suggested leads for a few questions throughout the packet. Teachers may wish to compare their designations with ours.

The following are a series of sample questions for the four thematic categories mentioned above. Each category includes at least one item for each of the four levels described.

The items are designed to be used for a variety of purposes, instructional as well as testing.

GEOGRAPHY

Level 1

Questions

- IV It has been stated that the initiation of a guerrilla movement depends greatly upon the extent to which the residents of an area believe in and support the goals of the guerrillas.

Base your answers to questions 1 through 4 on the preceding statement, on Situations A,B,C, and D, below, and on your knowledge of social studies.

- A Members of the Zeno ethnic group have second-class citizenship in the Retches Republic even though they comprise a majority of the population. Many live in slum villages near every city in the Republic and work at the lowest level jobs available. Until recently, most of the Zenos have passively accepted their position and status.
- B The Luzus were the original inhabitants of Zatol, but were pushed into the rough hill country by the Zatol invaders 200 years ago. After many years of neglect and oppression, the central government has made serious attempts to better their conditions. Generally they now run their own community and state governments, and are represented at the national level. A major effort is currently underway to upgrade economic, educational, and occupational opportunities of the Luzus.
- C The Pinks are a minority group in the Land of the Blues. Although they possess legal equality, they have long been denied equal rights. Many of them now live jammed into urban slums, and they have become the majority in many of the cities. Pink leaders are demanding the elimination of Blue control over Pink communities.
- D Kroy Wen is a large city in the state of the same name. It is the largest city in the Asu Republic, and is a major commercial, financial, and artistic center. About 50% of the people of the state live there. However, it faces all of the problems that face large cities anywhere but to a much larger extent, and is in deep financial trouble. Some city leaders are demanding that the city secede and become a separate state. However, this is not taken seriously by most people.

RELIGION AND PHILOSOPHY

Level	Questions
IV	The following is a data model about the religious life of Country X.
	Religious Values	Forms and Rituals	Related Notes
	1 All life is sacred.	1 Household objects are blessed by priests.	1 Priests form the highest class.
	2 Souls are reborn again and again.	2 Temple worship is restricted to the priests.	2 Society is organized into rigid classes.
	3 Eventual nonexistence is the promised reward for the good life.	3 Form of ritual varies with social class.	3 Class role is well-defined and understood by all.
	4 Man must proceed through many stages to reach nonexistence.	4 Religious holidays provide entertainment for the masses.	4 Other religions are allowed, but they are heavily taxed.
	5 Improvement from one life to the next is based upon the degree of acceptance of the conditions of the present life.	5 Priests marry and only sons of priests may become priests.	5 The official religion is tax supported.

Answer questions 1 through 7 by circling either yes, no, or cannot determine from data and by writing in the space provided a one-line statement explaining your answer.

- 1 Would this country probably encourage a college education for all?
yes no cannot determine from data
- 2 Would revolution be likely in this country in the near future?
yes no cannot determine from data
- 3 Might you expect to discover an active youth culture here?
yes no cannot determine from data
- 4 Would you be likely to discover much support for eliminating class differences here?
yes no cannot determine from data
- 5 Would you be likely to discover a general desire to solve social problems in this country?
yes no cannot determine from data

- 6 In this country, might you tend to find more acceptance of a new religion promising personal salvation and reward in heaven for the lower, rather than for the higher classes?
yes no cannot determine from data
- 7 Would high social status be directly related to monetary success in Country X?
yes no cannot determine from data

CULTURAL CHARACTERISTICS AND RELATIONSHIPS

Level	Questions
I	Which best explains what culture is? 1 national economic and social progress 2 the appreciation of art, music, and beauty *3 all the ways in which people live in a society 4 the standard of living achieved by the majority of the population

Level

Questions

- IV Base your answers to questions 1 through 3 on the data below and on your knowledge of social studies.

The following data have been collected about Societies Alpha and Omega

Data	Society Alpha	Society Omega
1 Violent Crimes/100,000	313	2,347
2 Suicide Rate/100,000	94	329
3 Heart Attack Rate/100,000	1,131	7,294
4 Ulcer Victims/100,000	2,000	10,000
5 Divorce Rate/100,000 Marriages	1,000	23,000
6 Teenage Runaways/100,000	5	593
7 Agricultural Workers/100,000 Employed	74,200	6,800
8 Women/100,000 Workers	3,200	41,900
9 Annual Income ($)/Household	$689	$6,133
10 Average No. of Children/Family	5.1	2.3
11 Average Life Expectancy (years)	51	76

- 1 Which would probably be the most valid generalization concerning the differences between Societies Alpha and Omega?
- 1 Society Alpha has a more highly developed health and welfare system than does Society Omega.
 - 2 Society Alpha has a more dense population than does Society Omega.
 - *3 Society Alpha is characterized by a slower rate of change than Society Omega.
 - 4 Society Alpha is characterized by a more advanced ethical system than is Society Omega.

2 Which would most likely be a serious problem in Society Omega?

- 1 movement of people from the cities to the farms
- 2 absence of a well-developed transportation network
- *3 tensions resulting from too rapid a pace of life
- 4 too many communities isolated from each other

3 A leader in Society Alpha who desired to rapidly increase that society's per household income might first have to solve which problem?

- *1 Near-subsistence agriculture provides little surplus.
- 2 Material prosperity is not desired by the people.
- 3 Few women would be available to work in new industry.
- 4 The birth rate is too low to support industrialization.

Ninth Grade Social Studies Sample Question Packet

Part II - Objective Questions

1 Which best describes the meaning of "culture"?

- 1 the advancement and progress of a nation
- 2 man's ability to appreciate art and music
- *3 all the ways in which men live
- 4 the products which men own

2 Which aspect of culture is most directly influenced by the physical geography of an area?

- 1 religion
- 2 language
- *3 food
- 4 music

3 Below are three different proverbs.

"Mighty oaks from tiny acorns grow." (USA)

"The journey of 1,000 miles begins with a single step." (China)

"A little rain each day will fill the river to overflowing." (West Africa)

Which conclusion is best supported by these proverbs?

- 1 All cultures are concerned with transportation and conservation.
- 2 The hydrographic cycle replenishes the water table.
- 3 Man seeks to make excuses for his inaction, no matter what his culture is.
- *4 Although cultures differ, people view many situations in similar ways.

(We have designated the above as a level III question. Do you agree?)

4 The Five Pillars of Islam, the Ten Commandments, and the Eightfold Path of Buddhism are similar in that they all

- 1 say that the only way to get to heaven is by praying and meditating
- 2 offer a happy and easy life for those who follow their teachings
- *3 serve as guidelines to follow in the practice of religion
- 4 tell man exactly how to attain everlasting life

5 The Middle East is an area which

- 1 is highly industrialized
- 2 has a generally high standard of living
- *3 has an economy based on agriculture and oil production
- 4 is highly developed

- 6 Moslems may be found from the deserts of the Middle East to the islands of Indonesia, from the grasslands of the U.S.S.R. to the grasslands of Africa, from the cities of North Africa to the rural areas of the Philippines, and many other places in between and beyond.

The above paragraph indicates that

- 1 religious development is closely related to environmental conditions
- *2 major religious movements have generally possessed wide appeal
- 3 religions spread more rapidly when a variety of cultures are involved
- 4 certain religions are more suitable than others for developing nations

- 7 Traditional African religions resulted in the

- 1 building of huge temples
- 2 creation of an important priestly class
- *3 development of many separate and distinct practices
- 4 attempt to convert neighboring tribes

- 8 In a traditional African society, an individual is most likely to identify himself by the name of his

- *1 clan
- 2 immediate family
- 3 geographic region
- 4 nation

- 9 An African's relation to his tribe would be most similar to an American's relation to his

- *1 ethnic group
- 2 state
- 3 religion
- 4 political party

(We suggest that this is a representative level II question. Do you agree?)

- 10 In Africa, tribes and nations are similar in that both

- *1 regulate people's behavior
- 2 rely on mass media to insure conformity
- 3 must elect their leaders
- 4 are structured on kinship patterns

- 11 "He who is unable to dance says that the yard is stony."
"He who cannot dance will say, 'the drum is bad'."

These two African proverbs indicate that Africans

- 1 have trouble dancing
- 2 like to dance
- *3 make excuses just as others do
- 4 have unique patterns of thinking

- 12 "Let him speak who has seen with his eyes." This African proverb best supports the idea that

- 1 seeing movies about another culture is the next best thing to being there
- 2 the only way to learn about other cultures is by talking to people who have been there
- *3 it is wrong to criticize another culture before trying to understand it
- 4 TV programs about other cultures give the most accurate view of those cultures

- 13 Which aspect of a traditional society might be most appropriate for an industrial society to adopt?

- 1 subsistence farming
- *2 living in harmony with the environment
- 3 the extended family
- 4 bargaining for market prices

- 14 The acceptance of polygamy by one society and its rejection by another is most directly a result of differences in

- 1 education
- 2 geography
- *3 culture
- 4 economics

Base your answers to questions 15 and 16 on the quotation below and on your knowledge of social studies.

"The Ewe tribe in West Africa finds that part of its people now live in a country called Togo and the rest live in one called Ghana. The Ewe have existed as a tribe for centuries; Togo and Ghana are recent political inventions."

--Walderman A. Nielsen, NY Times

15 Which statement concerning the Ewe tribe is most valid?

- *1 It is divided between two countries.
- 2 It exists as it has for centuries.
- 3 It is a new tribe that has developed since Togo and Ghana have achieved independence.
- 4 It wants to be divided between Togo and Ghana.

16 Which is a major idea expressed in the quotation about the Ewe?

- 1 the desirability of creating two separate Ewe tribes
- 2 the need for unity between Togo and Ghana
- *3 a problem created when Europeans divided Africa
- 4 all Africans existing as brothers

17 A study of sub-Saharan Africa best justifies which statement?

- 1 Geographic barriers have little effect upon trade and migration patterns.
- 2 Geography determines cultural development.
- *3 Over an extended period of time, cultural contact takes place regardless of geographic barriers.
- 4 Historically, groups with ethnic and cultural differences have refused to intermingle.

18 A study of some of the kingdoms that existed over 1,000 years ago in West and Central Africa indicates that

- *1 highly complex civilizations existed before Europeans arrived
- 2 these kingdoms did have governments but their people were uncivilized
- 3 these cultures were superior to all others existing at that time
- 4 they were politically immature societies

19 Which is the most accurate statement about the results of 19th century European activity in Africa?

- 1 Africans gained more than they lost.
- 2 Africans and Europeans gained equally.
- *3 African cultures were downgraded.
- 4 Africans gave up their tribal loyalties.

- 20 When Europeans in the 19th century referred to "the white man's burden," they referred to
- 1 the heavy equipment that Europeans brought to Africa
 - *2 the belief that it was the European's duty to "uplift" the African
 - 3 the demands of many Africans that the Europeans trade with them
 - 4 the displeasure felt by many Europeans about having to live and work in Africa
- 21 Which statement concerning Africa in 1900 is most valid?
- 1 It was independent of European rule.
 - *2 It was largely controlled by European powers.
 - 3 It was cooperating with European nations for its betterment.
 - 4 It was as powerful as Europe.
- 22 The boundaries of modern African nations do not usually follow tribal boundaries. This most likely results from the fact that
- 1 African nations want to decrease tribal influences
 - 2 most tribes are unwilling to cooperate with the new nations
 - 3 tribes have little importance in the life of modern Africa
 - *4 national boundaries tend to follow former colonial boundaries
- 23 Which is the most valid statement about recorded African history?
- *1 It was distorted as a result of the slave era.
 - 2 It was explained accurately.
 - 3 It was written by impartial European historians.
 - 4 It was based upon written records found throughout Africa.
- 24 The poem "Africa's Plea," in which the author concludes, "God made me me, He made you you. For God's sake, let me be me," reveals
- 1 the desire of most Africans to worship God
 - 2 the common belief of Africans that their culture is superior to others
 - *3 the failure of many Westerners to appreciate African culture
 - 4 the bitter hatred that Africans feel toward white men
- 25 The Hindu belief that each person's soul experiences many rebirths is called
- 1 restitution
 - *2 reincarnation
 - 3 recycling
 - 4 reiteration

- 26 A Hindu who believes in reincarnation would most likely be influenced by this belief in which way?
- 1 a vital concern with accumulating worldly goods
 - *2 a hopeful outlook because his soul will have many chances to reach its goal
 - 3 discouragement because he has no hope of improving his life
 - 4 happiness because Brahma cares for him and for every other Hindu
- 27 The belief in reincarnation has hindered change in India because this belief tends to
- *1 make people accept present conditions
 - 2 encourage people to question existing conditions
 - 3 promote an "anything goes" philosophy
 - 4 result in a high regard for the priestly class
- 28 People in India are less likely to eat beef than people of some other cultures. This difference is primarily caused by the influence of
- *1 religion
 - 2 government
 - 3 language
 - 4 geography

(This is a level I question)

- 29 "As among a thousand cows a calf will find its mother, so the deed previously done will find the doer."
- Which best illustrates the meaning of the Indian proverb?
- 1 Cows are sacred and therefore plentiful.
 - 2 There are many gods representing many elements of life.
 - *3 All of a man's actions in this life help to determine his place in the next life.
 - 4 A man's soul may experience many rebirths before it finally achieves the desired state of "moksha".
- 30 Which aspect of modern Indian life, as illustrated by the want ad below, most differs from traditional Hindu practice?
